TRIBAL WELFARE

Govt of India notified six Scheduled Tribes in the UT of A&N Islands. Barring Nicobarese, other five tribes are PVTGs who are in different stages of acculturation. Andamanese and Onges have been rehabilitated in Strait Island & in Dugong Creek of Little Andaman respectively. They are provided with infrastructural facilities and given welfare support. Their children are now going to school and many adults work in Administration. The other three tribes namely Jarawas, Sentinelese and Shompens continue as hunter-gatherers. They are Particularly Vulnerable, due to location of settlements of non-tribals from the mainland India-close to tribal habitat. The Administration has to do a fine balancing of livelihood interests of PVTGs & settlers. These non-tribal settlers were brought to the islands due to settlement policy of British India & also by Independent India. Andaman Aadim Janjati Vikas Samiti (AAJVS) a registered society, constituted by the A&N Administration in the year 1979 functions as a trustee to take care of the interests of tribal communities, especially PVTGs.

Jarawas

There are 428 Jarawas living in Jarawa Tribal Reserve (JTR) of 1028 Sq.Km in South & Middle Andaman Islands. Their immediate neighbours are the settlers now numbering about 1.5 Lakh, namely, Bengalis from the erstwhile East Pakistan, Ranchis of Chota Nagpuri, Karens of Burma. As per Jarawa Policy framed in the year 2004, by GoI, the A&N Administration takes measures to protect and preserve Jarawas from any exploitation. No non-tribal is allowed to enter the Jarawa Tribal Reserve (JTR). Jarawas continue their livelihood activities with full autonomy. Only minimum and calibrated intervention is being done by the Administration, extending health facilities, preferably in-situ to Jarawas. A Buffer Zone of 05 km around JTR has been notified, banning therein-commercial and tourism establishments. It is ensured that no interaction by non-tribals takes place with Jarawas. Administration in 2014 has set Andaman and Nicobar

Research and Training Institute to create welfare policy framed on foundation of research and study and at every step the opinion and ideas of the concerned groups are incorporated for implementation at various level.

2. The National Highway called Andaman Trunk Road (ATR) connects the settlement villages with the HQ i.e. Port Blair. A part of ATR passes through Jarawa Tribal Reserve (JTR). As per Jarawa Policy, the movement of vehicles on the ATR is being regulated by a convoy system and monitored. The Administration is taking steps to provide an alternate sea route, to reduce the density of traffic on the segment of ATR passing through JTR. The project will be completed in about three years.

3. On the advice of Ministry of Tribal Affairs, ethnographic studies on the culture, livelihood activities, health issues etc of Jarawas are being carried out by a Group of Experts. The experts have recently identified 08 locations in the periphery of JTR, where AAJVS staff and experts will interact with Jarawas to understand their ethos, culture and their willingness to negotiate with the communities outside their territory according to their own pace. These locations called 'Hot-spots' will facilitate a two way channel of communication between Jarawas and AAJVS, thereby the required health and welfare support can be given. Recently, Jarawa women expressed their desire to wear clothes, especially while being in public space. The Group of Experts have carefully examined this matter and given appropriate recommendations to the Administration. With the approval of the Ministry of Tribal Affairs, Govt of India, these recommendations are under implementation.

Shompens

In Great Nicobar Island, Shompens (numbering 219) are living in different bands in thick tropical forests and in coasts. A tribal reserve of 992 Sqkm has been declared. Some of the bands do have symbiotic relationship with Nicobarese. At present the Administration extends health and other welfare support, whenever demanded by the tribe. Ministry of Tribal Affairs has entrusted the task of framing Shompen Policy to the A&N Administration. The survey of the contemporary situation of Shompens, by the AAJVS, under the guidance of Group of Experts has just been commenced. It is expected that the draft policy will be ready for circulation among stake holders by the end of 2014. Research work under hard conditions is in progress to determine exactly what internal social differences are present among the Shompens.

Sentinelese

This hunter-gatherer tribe numbering 50, lives in North Sentinelese Island having an extent of 60 Sq Km. They are hostile to other outside communities. The Administration, in the past frequently visited the island on friendly contact by way of extending 'gifts'. However, after 1993, this practice was stopped. The Defence and Civil Administration keeps surveillance and looks out for the poachers, if any. The Group of Experts is of the view that though the present 'hands-off' policy is agreeable, the Administration must have an 'eyes-open' approach, to ensure that no poachers enter into the island, in as much as the Sentinelese had the past experience of friendly contacts with the Administration. Further, the status of livelihood resources and health concerns of the tribe should be carefully evaluated, lest the tribe get diminished. The Administration has been advised by the expert to initiate a regular structured circum-navigation of the island, set for the next six months. This is being carefully examined.

Onges

The Onges have been in contact with the outsiders since 1890. The Onges have been acculturate considerably but are encouraged to still continue with some of their indigenous activities and traditions. The traditional rites and rituals are still observed by them. The present population of the Onge is 112. Initially the Onges were scattered all over the Little Andaman Island in different bands, but later they have been settled at two places viz. Dugong Creek and South Bay in Little Andaman Island. After Tsunami, 2004, all the Onges have, on their own choice shifted to Dugong Creek, Little Andaman.

Andamanese

The Andamanese, have been settled at Strait Island in Andaman District. It is the first tribe which came in contact with the civilization through the British Administration during Penal Settlement. They were just 19 persons in late 1960's and individual Andamanese roamed around aimlessly in the Islands. The A & N Administration decided to rehabilitate the surviving Andamanese on Strait Island. Andamanese population has gradually increased to 58 now over a period of time as a result of various welfare measures undertaken by the Administration. Many of them are working as employees in the Departments of the Administration. Their children are pursuing their education with the active supporting of the Administration.

Nicobarease

The Nicobarease constitute the largest group among the tribals. They inhabit 12 of the 22 Islands in the Nicobar District. The major concentration of the Nicobarease is at Car Nicobar Island while the other Islands are sparsely populated. The work of Christian missionaries exerted an influence on the tribe. Rev. John Richardson was the first Nicobari bishop who was given western education by Mr. Vedappen Solomon, a Tamil Christian, posted to Car Nicobar from Madras Presidency as the first govt agent of East India Company. Soon after the Japanese occupation of the islands Christianity established firm hold on native life. Today the majority of the Nicobarease are Christians. There are also Muslims among the Nicobarease who were influenced by Muslim traders, originally from the Laccadives or Minicoyans, Gujarat and Surat. Nonetheless the Nicobarease observe their traditional festivals like Ossuary which include well known "Pig Fight". Tsunami, 2004 destroyed the houses and infrastructure of Nicobarease. The Administration has provided permanent shelters to all Nicobarease who have lost their houses. Essential services like drinking water supply, power supply, postal services and telecommunication services have been provided in all Tribal Islands.

2. Due to spread of education the literacy rate among the Nicobarese is high and it is increasing rapidly. Nowadays most of the child deliveries take place in hospitals and primary health centers. A sizable number of Nicobarese are holding responsible jobs in different Government offices and in private originations as administrators, doctors, teachers, clerks, nurses, extension officers, and so on. Also, quite a few Nicobarese are in the Army, Air Force, Navy and central Reserve Police Force, posted to various parts of the country.
